PRISNA SUNGWANNA

ABOUT PRISNA

Prisna Sungwana is partner and director of Tilleke & Gibbins' office in Laos, overseeing the full scope of the firm's operations in the jurisdiction, with a particular focus on corporate, commercial, and dispute resolution matters. With over 30 years of legal practice in the region, Prisna is regarded as a leading figure in Southeast Asia's legal community. She is recognised for her expertise in corporate law, energy and infrastructure projects, and complex M&A transactions, and she is the lawyer of choice for major regional and international organisations looking to expand business operations in Southeast Asia.

With a wealth of experience advising foreign investors, Prisna has a strong background in advising on compliance issues and regularly assists clients in practically managing and mitigating associated risks, advising foreign investors on corporate structuring and restructuring, and corporate management and control. She excels at guiding clients through the challenges that can arise as they pursue their business goals in Southeast Asia, and her long record in corporate structuring and transactions has made Prisna a go-to advisor for leading companies around the world.

Her client portfolio encompasses a spectrum of industries, including cosmetics, energy, finance, infrastructure, manufacturing, and technology, and her comprehensive guidance extends to advising foreign investors on investment incentives, work permits, visas, and real estate matters. Prisna's multifaceted expertise positions her as a cornerstone in facilitating seamless market entry and sustainable growth strategies for clients in the region.

Prisna is also dedicated to assisting pro bono clients, such as her longtime assistance to an overseas foundation in its support of paediatric hospital facilities in southern Thailand. Beyond her legal practice, Prisna also regularly publishes insights and updates on legal developments in Laos and Thailand.
