ABOUT DAMIAN

Damian is an Associate Director in the Corporate and Mergers & Acquisitions Practice Group in Drew & Napier. He is also a member of the Telecommunications Media and Technology and Information Technology Practice Group.

His key practice areas are in corporate and commercial law, with an emphasis in mergers and acquisitions, information technology, employment and healthcare regulatory matters.

Damian regularly advises clients on mergers and acquisitions and other transactional and corporate commercial matters across a wide variety of industries. In particular, he advises MNCs, listed companies and start-ups on acquisitions, fund raising and other transactions, including joint ventures, shareholder agreements, corporate restructuring and commercial agreements.

For information technology matters, Damian advises on software services, procurement, website terms of use and other related contracts. He also advises on a range of matters in the healthcare regulatory space including biotechnology, pharmaceuticals and medical devices.

In relation to employment law, Damian regularly advises on the full range of employment issues including pre-employment processes and procedures, the employment contract as well as post-employment related matters.

Damian also advises on equity capital markets, including Singapore and Hong Kong initial public offerings, listed company equity fund raising such as rights issues and placements and SGX regulatory compliance matters.
